Transport Limited

Delivering the goods for projects
in heavy industry

Welcome to Allen Transport Limited

We specialise in meeting the transportation and logistics requirements of construction and civil engineering companies. This includes supplying heavy equipment, manpower and personal protective equipment to make your project a success. Our comprehensive industry solutions, UK and Europe-wide coverage, competitive prices and high-quality service have seen us grow rapidly to become a credible and preferred alternative to the high-profile, high-priced market leaders.

This brochure shows how we help companies in multiple industry sectors to deliver their projects, supplying and transporting the raw materials, equipment and manpower needed to meet the ever-changing industry demands for quality and speed.

Who We Are

Allen Transport Ltd. was founded in 2012 as a regional supplier and transporter of heavy construction and excavation materials and equipment such as tippers, crushers, tractors and excavators. Our formula is simple: provide the highest quality service that rivals any of the leading transport and logistics companies, at truly competitive prices. This means the best and most reliable equipment and manpower used to complete each project on time and for a price that is hard to beat.

As a result, we have established a reputation for excellence which has spread far beyond our original base, and we now have offices and depots in the Midlands and Middlesex in England. Our core customer base is the construction and civil engineering industries, but we routinely work in all sectors that need efficient, reliable and affordable transport of materials and goods.

With depots at either end, and at the heart, of the UK. We are ideally placed to serve the whole of the British Isles and Europe with the cost effective, transport and equipment provision that the industry demands.

Who We Serve

In which sector does your business operate? Whatever the answer, it's highly likely we have successfully completed projects for companies like yours.

Allen Transport is becoming the transport and logistics provider of choice for organisations across many sectors here and overseas. Well-known and respected organisations are noticing Allen Transport's way of doing business, and making the company their first choice for road and specialist transport (primarily taking loads to or from construction and building sites), tankers (transporting liquid and powder products) and fleet management.
